DEDICATION

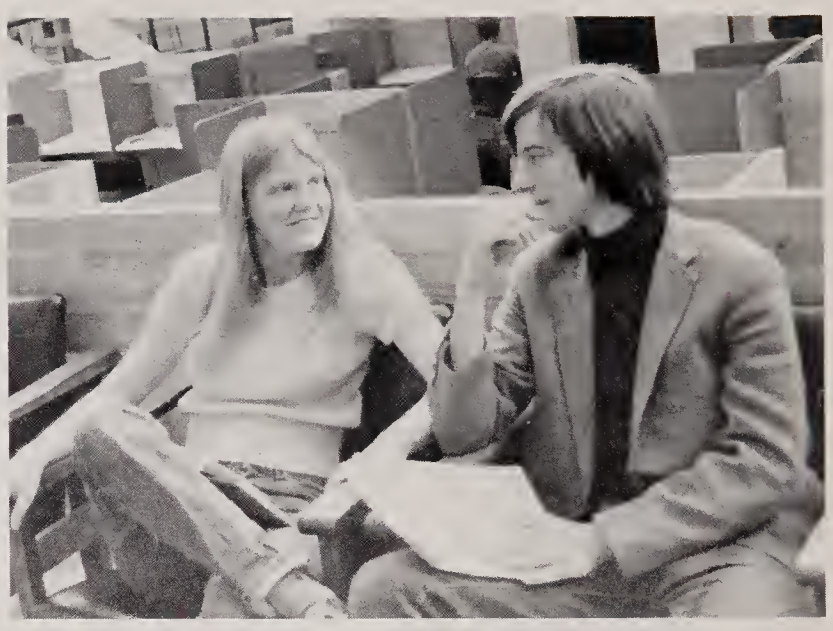
The staff of the 1976 Yearbook dedicates this volume to Martha Zelinka. For many years she has contributed her talent and wisdom to the life of this school. No one is more deserving of this recognition. It is an honor for us to bestow it upon her.

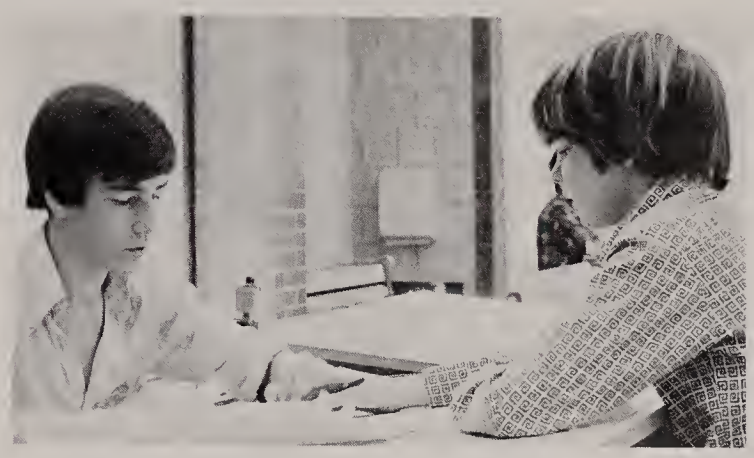
Who would dispute Miss Zelinka's mathematical prowess, the great knowledge which she commands in her field? But she possesses something more important than this skill, and that is her ability to be an inspiration in the classroom. Martha Zelinka's philosophy is apparent in her class. She extols the beauty of mathematics and explains the intrinsic relationship math has with all facets of life. This is proof enough of Miss Zelinka's unwavering dedication to her vocation. She is a most demanding teacher, but this exigency is a product of her genuine concern for her work and her students. Being in her class is not easy. It requires steady concentration and much hard work. One might even say an extraordinary amount of work. But, may we remind you, Martha Zelinka is no ordinary woman.

Her care and sincerity for what she does have won Miss Zelinka many admirers among the student body. They appreciate her as a person who is not the least bit frivolous; her wit is dry and quick; she means what she says. Miss Zelinka has gained infinite respect from the faculty of this school for her effectiveness as an educator. We should be admonished, though, that popularity – the winning of respect and admiration – is not the main objective of this or any school . . .

"We are here to learn."

Many thanks to you, Martha Zelinka.





Give a little bit more.

FACULTY

RECOGNITION

Not all who have studied with Mrs. Heptner would say that they have enjoyed learning spanish. But few could state displeasure in regard to Doña Angela's teaching and disposition. Her ebullience and alacrity, coupled with a strong desire to share her knowledge, make her an invaluable asset to the school. Gladly will she learn, and gladly teach. A native of Spain, Angela Heptner maintains a Castillian verve which is a rare and welcome quality here. She is a spirited and feisty woman who should be commended for being herself. We recognize her as one who works here with interest, with joy . . . y con gram sentimiento.

Mr. Moran is an extremely talented man. He is both an accomplished artist and a skilled teacher, one whose perception and understanding make him extremely well suited to his profession. Mr. Moran's amiable temperament and joyful sense of humor are equally important factors in his teaching. For what worth does technical facility have when not accompanied by the personality of a creative soul? Jim Moran embodies both of these and so we show our gratitude to him.

Prudence is not a deity to be cultivated in youth. Youth is a time to go flashing from one end of the world to the other both in mind and body; to try the manners of different nations; to hear the chimes at midnight; to see sunrises in town and country; to be converted at a revival; to circumnavigate the metaphysics, write halting verse, run a mile to see a fire.

It's like picking flowers:
We pick them at the peak of their bloom
to save and enjoy,
and so it seems it was the same with God.
The hand of nature reached down and picked Him a soul in bloom. And though the blossom must die, we will remember it always in bloom.

Is there beyond the silent night
an endless day?
Is death a door that leads to light?
We cannot say.
The tongueless secret locked in fate.
We do not know, we hope and wait.

ANNE K. O'NEILL

SENIOR CLASS ADVISORS . . . A Special Recognition

To Mrs. Fernald, to Mr. Gearan, the Class of 1976 says thank you. For the past four years, they have occupied themselves with a task that has rewarded them with sporadic periods of worrying, responsibility for an unpredictable mass of adolescents, and more than their share of slings and arrows. They are advisors to the class of 1976. We recognize now their affability and constructive aid of the past years, and laud them for a job well done!

Perfection

There is no real perfection.
There'll be no perfect day.
Just love is our connection,

There's no good revolution,

No matter how ruined man and his world may seem to be, and no matter how terrible man's despair may become, as long as he continues to be a man his very humanity continues to tell him that life has a meaning. That, indeed, is one reason why man tends to rebel against himself. If he could without effort see what the meaning of life is, and if he could fulfill his ultimate purpose without trouble, he would never question the fact that life is well worth living. Or if he saw at once that life had no purpose and no meaning, the question would never arise. In either case, man would not be capable of finding himself so much of a problem.

Each time we come to the end of a journey, and there are many in a lifetime, we are on the threshold of another. As we pause, momentarily, while moving on to new experiences, I find myself whispering, "I'm so glad I chose to come this way."

Don't be afraid to see yourself
As the you-that-you'd-like-to-be,
No matter how far removed from the real
The you-of-you-dreams-may be.
Keep dreaming the dream – hitch a ride on a star,
Hold tight – never let yourself fall,
And one day you'll find that you-of-your-dreams
Is the you-that-is-real, after all.

Real life is doing something which you love to do with your whole being so that there is no inner contradiction, no war between what you are doing and what you think you should do. Life is then a completely integrated process in which there is tremendous joy.

Once upon a time I met another man of the roads, he too was a little mad, and thus he spoke to me:

"I am a wanderer. Often times I walk the earth among pygmies. And because is seventy cubits farther from the earth than theirs, it creates higher and freer thought.

"But in truth I walk not among men, but above them, and all they can see of me is my footprint in their open fields.

"And often I have heard them discuss and disagree over the shape and size of my footprints. For there are some who say, 'These are the tracks of a mammoth that roamed the earth in the far past.' And others say, 'Nay, these are places where meteors have fallen from distant stars!

"But you, my friend, you know full well that they are naught save the footprints of a wanderer."

— To speak of these things and try to understand their nature and, having understood it, to try slowly and humbly and constantly to express, to press out again, from the gross earth or what brings forth, from the sound and shape and color which are the prison gates of our soul, an image of the beauty we have come to understand — that is art.

The theatre is empty.
A sad and lonely time; They all have gone their seperate ways,
The theatre now is mine.
Electric images in hazy parade
Recall now – faded times.
Rehearsing till the clock strikes twelve,
Props and make-up room lines.
Recalling times together
When our closeness swelled.
I close the door with few regrets.
For we have all played our parts well.

Serving your Country has its benefits.

When you give a few years to your Country, you get a lot in return.

If you qualify, you get training in the job you choose.

You get to work in Europe, Korea, Panama, Hawaii, Alaska, or almost anywhere in the continental U.S.

You get in-service educational opportunities, as well as the G.I. Bill when your enlistment's over.

You get free medical and dental care, meals, housing, and 30 days paid vacation a year.

And most importantly, you get a chance to serve yourself as you serve your Country.

Put yourself right in the middle of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Bunker Hill, June 17, 1775... the first major battle of the American Revolutionary War.

Now, more than 200 years later, you can experience a re-creation of that famous battle at the Bunker Hill Pavilion, located next to the U.S.S. Constitution in Charlestown.

Sponsored by the Raytheon Historical Foundation, the Pavilion houses a multi-media presentation, created by White Oak Design, Inc., that vividly re-creates the sights and sounds of the conflict.

You'll be surrounded by fast-moving panoramic images, multi-directional sound and 22 life-size manikins in period costume. And you'll relive the drama and hear the words of those who were actually there that momentous day.

In 1976, the spotlight is on America's past... and your future.
